A Game Finely Played by Both the Home Team and the Visitors from the Start.

Chicago Wins Twice from Washington, New York Beats Detroit and Boston Shuts Out Pittsburg-The Giants Have a Long Lead.

One of the most brilliant games of the season was that at the ball park yesterday afternoon. Each team played so well that it could have scored a victory nineteen times out of twenty against any club whatsoever, but as usual in cases where the playing is anything like evenly divided the home club got the worst of the luck and was beaten. Not only that, but it got the worst of the umpiring, and it deserves credit for the showing it made. Yet the Philadelphia players played in beautiful style and it looks almost unreasonable to begrudge them the victory. They came on the field attired in very handsome suits-among the most handsome seen here this year-and the animated manner in which they conducted themselves from the very start presaged victory to them. Considering the crippled condition of the home team, few of its friends had hope of its scoring a victory, and yet had not pure luck given the visitors a the first inning, and umpire Daniels handed them a run on a platter in the ninth they would not have won the game, brilliantly as they played, for the home team played still better, in the field, at the bat, in the box, behind the plate and everywhere. It was an exceptional game and was worth more than two ordinary games. It was the expection of many of those who went to the park to see two games, as it had been announced, but at a late hour the local management abandoned that idea. The crowd was large, numbering over two thousand people, and also quite enthusiastic at times, although the home club was playing against a lead all the way through the game.

Although the base-hit column was small, it was far from a battle of pitchers. Sanders, who pitched such a phenomenal game against Chicago on Tuesday, was in the bex for Harry Wright's men and it was feared that he would be invulnerable. He pitched finely, having terrific speed and good control of the ball, but the home batsmen had their eye on the ball and they pounded it savagely all through the game, but it generally went right at a fielder, and frequently made a nice bound just as it came to him, and when it did not do that the fielder would make a sharp play and retire the batter. The visitors also did considerable hard hitting at the fielders late in the game but in the early portion they could do little at h Shreve. The double umpire system was in vogue, with Daniels calling balls and strikes and Powers, a new one here, on the bases. Daniels did not make many mistakes but they were very palpable, and every one against the home team. Powers called Glasscock out at first on one occasion when he should have followed League instructions and have given the home club the benefit of a decision so

Fogarty began the game with a miserable little scratch hit down in front of the plate. It was not a bunt hit, but a pure accident. He supplemented the play by a brilliant steal to second base, went to third on Schoeneck's error off Wood's grounder, which had no effect on the game, as the hit would have been good for a sacrifice, and, after Wood was thrown out at second, scored on a wild pitch. Farrar's basehit earned the run, but it was due, after all, to Fogarty's scratch. No more runs were made until the ninth, when Fogarty again scored. He was first batter, and got his base on balls. Wood made a nice hit to center, which sent the star right-fielder to second. Then Andrews foul-tipped so that almost everybody heard it, but Daniels didn't, and he only said "one strike," after which the batter made a sacrifice, which put Fogarty on third. Glasscock was then watching the runner on second, and not covering his usual position, which gave Farrar a chance to put a slow grounder into his territory, and he did it, Fogarty scoring. The home club had not yet scored, although it had apparently had several good opportunities, but in the ninth it made a run and should have tied the score. Bassett got in a hit, and Glasscock followed with a drive which Irwin knocked down in short left field. Having no chance to field out the runner he threw to second and threw wild. Fogarty picked up the ball and threw over Farrar's head, the ball rolling to the grand stand. Bassett scored, and Glasscock could almost have walked to third, but, whether through poor coaching or excitement, he halted on second, and McGeachy's sacrifice which followed only sent him to third instead of home. Schoeneck was given a base on balls, as Sanders was not sequainted with him. The big fellow was allowed to steal second unmolested, and a good hit would have won the game, but Myers sent a

DETROIT, Sept. 20. - The champions bunched their errors in the sixth inning to-day, allowing the Giants to score three runs without making a hit. White made a wild throw to first, Bennett and Rowe one each, Bennett fumbled a hit in front of the plate, and Hanlon muffed a rather difficult fly. The only features of the game were two fine catches by Slattery. Score:

CHICAGO WINS TWICE. CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—O'Day pitched well in the first game to-day until his support went to piece in the fourth, after which he was hit hard till the close. Dwyer, who recently came from the Western Association team of this city, pitched with fine effect throughout. It was his first League game. The second game began at the close of the first. Gumbert was steady, and few hard hits were made by Washington. The Chicagos had trouble in finding Keefe, but he was very wild, giving eight men bases on balls.

TWO GAMES AT ST. LOUIS. Sr. Louis, Sept. 20.-The Browns and Baltimores played two championship games to-day, each club winning one. Chamberlain again distinguished himself in the first game by shutting out the visitors. But three hits were made off his delivery. In the second game Cunningbam was the more effective, though King pitched in excellent form. Two of McQuaid's decision's robbed the Browns of at least one run, and probably two. Cunningham, notwithstanding this, deserves great credit for his work. Latham's fielding was a feature. Score:

LOUISVILLE, 1; BROOKLYN, 0. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 20 .- Brooklyn made a hard fight against strong play by Louisville today, but was shut out in a close finish. Stratton and Foutz in the box did most of the work, and both were handsomely supported. Collins, in the ninth, hit safe, stole second, while Weaver and Wolf went out, took third on Esterbrook's single, and scored when Peoples fumbled Kerins's hit. Louisville claimed that Pinckney held Collins at third on Esterbrook's hit, but Gaffney dissented; but at the finish he sent back Pinckney when O'Brien interfered with Cross,

Base-Ball Notes. Umpire Powers was once a reporter on the Sanders pitched a fine game yesterday, but the home players had their eyes on the ball. Spalding has written to Healy, asking him to join the Australian expedition. He will doubtless do so. The crowd denounced the umpire without cause when he called foul a hit by Clements, which struck the batteron the knee and bounded into the fair ground.

that luck, a great deal like that which follows the Indianapolis club, kept them from getting a start early in the season. At present they are the strongest club in the League, and the localites will be very lucky to get a game off of them. It is not likely to make another as strong a fight

The only point in which the visitors excelled the local team yesterday was in judgment. Twice the Indianapolis outfielders threw to third base in a hopeless effort to cut off runners, thus permitting another runner to reach second In another inning McGeachy might have reached a base in safety had be siid. He had made a hit to left, and at the return of the ball he made great effort to reach second. Only the sharpest kind of fielding by Farrar spoiled his

Daniels's mistakes yesterday were few, but very aggravating. In the first inning Farrar should have been called out on strikes before he made his bit, but the decision cost nothing. In the second inning, Myers, who was the first batter, had three balls and no strikes, when an in-shoot, two inches from the plate, was called a strike, and an almost certain base on bails spoiled. Shreve, the next batter, made a single, and all the good hitters were to follow. Again, in the eighth, Shreve was on second and Hines on first, with two outs. Denny struck at and missed one ball, and the next one, an out curve, missed the plate almost a foot, but Daniels said "Two strikes," and all chances of a hit faded with that decision, as Denny struck at the next one, which went in precisely the same place and missed the end of his bat. Shreve received no favors at any time, and, indeed, the umpiriog was very accurate, with the exceptions men-

Commission Man Under a Cloud. MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 20. -W. G. Hanley, a well-known commission dealer and a member of the firm of Peterson & Hanley, was arrested about midnight, last night, on a warrant charging him with stealing 15,000 bushels of wheat from the Minneapolis Union Elevator. The elwater company is said to have discovered that about 50,000 bushels of wheat have been stolen. It was done by over-loading cars. The cars leaving the elevators were to have contained 500 bushels each. It is now positively known that they were overloaded, and that to the extent of 50, 100, and sometimes to the extent of 150 bushels. Hanley has been D. C. Moak & Co.'s cashier and book-keeper. A rather singular coincidence in connection with this affair is the unexpected suspension of D. C. Mosk & Co., graindealers. The firm made an assignment yesterday, when a large amount of its paper went to protest. Others suspected of complicity are well-known wheat men, and the announcement of their names would cause a profound sensa-tion. By advice of his attorney Hanley refused

YEARLY MEETING.

Further Information About Missions-Closing Session of the Quakers at Plainfield.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PLAINFIELD, Sept. 20 .- On Tuesday afternoon the Woman's Foreign Mission Society held their annual session. The report of the conference of delegates from the several yearly meetings was presented. It gives encouragement for the foreign mission fields and the work as presented from every direction, and invites to increased interest in its support.

Mr. Newman was invited to address the audience, and gave a lucid presentation of the field entered and the work done by the London Yearly Meeting. English Friends in 1887-8 spent $46,600 in support of forty European missionaries. Among the Mohammedans at Constantinople four Friends, two of whom are Armenians, are missionaries. One hundred attend their meetings from different nationalities, At Brumana, on the western slope of Mt. Lebanon, there are eight Friends as missionaries. There are thirty members, eight schools, two training homes, a hospital and dispensary, a new meeting-house, accommodating two to three hundred; one hundred and seventy attend Sabbath-school and meeting, and one hundred attend mothers' meeting. Ramallah, near Jerusalem, is another mission center, comprising two Friends missionaries, eleven native helpers, four schools and a medical dispensary. This mission is now transferred to New England Yearly Meeting of Friends. Madagascar has three principal centers-Antananarivo, Arivonimamo, and Mendri-drano. There are there fourteen Friends missionaries. The district is seventy-two miles long. There are 32,000 adherents and 19,500 Sabbath attenders, 139 native churches, 129 schools, 15,000 scholars, a boys' school and a girls' school, a hospital and a printing-press. In south Africa there are two Friends missionaries and three stations; in China, two Friends missionaries at Hanchung wear native costume. It takes three months to reach the station, 1,000 miles from Hankow. The portion allotted to Friends is the northeast part of Si Chuan. In India there are seven Friends. They have an orphapage at two stations, Hoshangabad and Sobagpur, and a boys' and girl's school.

Wednesday afternoon a large attend-ance came in from the country, supposing a public meeting for worship would be neld in the morning. To accommodate them a meeting was provided in the tent. The afternoon was assigned for worship and two large meetings were held. In the evening a devotional meeting was held.

On Thursday morning a devotional meeting was held, and many Friends were heard from.

Some very practical advice was given. At 10 a.

M. the yearly meeting at large entered upon its closing session. The representatives presented their report, containing an apportionment of moneys to be raised among the quarterly meetings, and also an apportionment of documents; the report of caretakers, and report on order of business, and the appointment of a new committee for a like purpose for the ensuing year: also, the report of a committee to devise means to aid such as desire a proper qualification for church service. A course of reading and study was formulated, presented and approved. The committee appointed to consider the subject of a conference of foreign missions reported attention to the subject, and was continued. Essays of epistles to other yearly meetings in Europe and America were read and approved. Several expressed the great satisfaction this annual feast had afforded them. The clerk concluded the meeting, and the Friends returned to their

A. M. E. Conference. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Sept. 20.-The opening services to-day of the A. M. E. Conference, in session in this city, were under the direction of Rev. J. Mitchum and Rev. D. A. Graham, Bishop J. M. Brown presiding. The committee on temperance was increased from three members to five, Rev. J. Mitchum and Lewis Ratcliffe being appointed. Rev. Lewis resigned from the General Conference committee, and Rev. L. J. Coppin, of Philadelphia, was appointed in his stead by the bishon. The name of Geo. W. Miltox, from the Fifth district, was presented to admission to the conference and the matter was referred to the proper committee. Mr. Miltox was recommended by the quarterly conference of Marion. Bishop Brown made some remarks upon the so-called camp-meetings being conducted in different parts of the country. He advised all church members not to allow these men to intrude themselves upon them in any way. He held that if the camp-meeting was held under the auspices of the church it was all right and proper for the member to attend. Elder Henderson, of the lilinois Conference, was received as a representative from the Iowa Conference. He is soliciting aid from the Indiana Conference to purchase a residence for the bishop residing in Chicago, the cost not to exceed $5,000, and to be deeded to the district composed of the conferences of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan. This was referred to the proper committee. Bishop Brown made some very flattering remarks in regard to the work accomplished and being done under the direction of the Ladies' Mite Missionary Society, of Philadelphia. With society had caused the gospel to be preached in Hayti, Santo Domingo and Africa. This society had assisted in sending out every missionary that has gone to foreign lands. Like remarks were also made by Dr. D. P. Roberts. At 4 o'clock the educational sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Lewis, and to-night the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Henderson, of Chicago.

Indiana M. E. Conference. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Mr. Vernon, Sept. 19 .- The Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church met in this place at the M. E. church, to hold its fifty-seventh session. Bishop Vincent, D. D., LL. D., recently elected to this high office by the General Conference, is the presiding officer. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. James Hill, of Ohio Conference, by invitation of the pastor in charge of the church here. The conference met at 8:30 A. M. yesterday. Bishop Vincent conducted the opening exercises. R. A. Kemp, the secretary of the conference, called the roll, and one hundred members were found present. H. C. Clippinger, of Salem, and Wm. Telfer, of Ellettsville, were elected assistant secretaries. S. O. Dorsey, of Paoli, was chosen treasurer and C. S. Asbury, of Evansville, statistical secretary. Five members have died during the year-H. S. Dane, J. V. R. Miller, J. W. Asbury, J. F. Fish and A. D. Shively. The presiding elders of the conference made their reports, and the preachers followed, all of which showed the conference to have had a very prosperous year in all its inter-

The usual standing committees of the conference were appointed by the bishop and presiding elders. A special committee on young peo-ple was appointed, to consist of W. F. Sheridan, Scott Rader, C. E. Asbury, H. C. Clippinger, Joseph Rawlins and T. G. Beharrell. L. F. Cain was located at his own request. The case of F. A. Friedly, who is before the conference for trial, was taken up and a committee of thirteen was appointed to try the case.

The Michigan Gold Mines. ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 20.-Eight bundred bounds of quartz, carrying $8,000 in gold, was dislodged by a single blast at the Michigan mine last evaning. The shaft is now fourteen feet deep, and over $20,000 worth of gold bas been taken from it in less than a mouth. The vein carrying the gold is wider and more plainly defined at the bottom than at the surface. The rich rock was at first supposed to be a pocket, but it looks now as though it is a continuous vein of wonderfully rich quartz. The Lake Superior Company is getting gold from the shaft west of the Michigan, but no one is allowed to know how much or to enter the workings of the mine. The Superior Gold and Silver Company also has rock carrying several hundred dollars a ton in free gold. All of the prospects, except the Michigan, are being worked for all that's in them. The Michigan is still in litigation, which retards work.

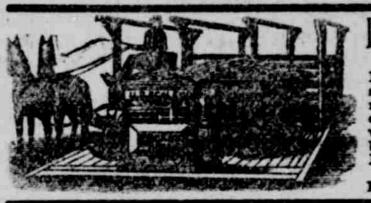

Ruffian Whipped and Tarred. WINONA, Sept. 20. - Last night Herbert Ross. of Wabasha, was taken from his house and treated to a coat of tar. For some time Ross has borne the reputation of being a bully and ruffian, maltreating inoffensive people and creating a reign of terror among the peaceable citizens. The direct cause of the tarring was the fact that a Wabasha merchant presented a bill to Ross and requested payment. The latter assaulted the merchant, pounding him in a shameful manner. On learning this a body of about 150 men gathered and marched to Ross's home, took him out, and, after administering a barrel over him. Ross has disappeared.

Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20 .- Over one thousand Odd-tellows and friends made an excursion yesterday afternoon to Pasadena. The trains were met at the depot by a large delegathe city the suests were escorted to the Tabernacle, where Col. W. A. Ray, in behalf of the Board of Trade, made an address of welcome.

Exposure and Conviction

The information contained in the report made by the hygienic authorities of the Nation on tood adulteration is not only valuable but suggestive. The people of this country are getting to a point where they will not much longer brook the trifling with adulterators. In this connection we wish to say that we believe that the public will not forget the Price Baking Powder Company's effort, heroic and single-handed as it was, to bring the bread tainters of the world to exposure and conviction. The issue of their war was purity in human diet, and the decision of the National Food Analysts was that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder was the one they could recommend to general family use, being free from ammonia, lime and all drug taint.

AGAINST A THIRD PARTY. Hon. Barnabas Hobbs on the Prohibition Movement in Indiana.

M. H. K.'s Indianapolis Letter in Chicago Inter

Your correspondent had an interesting interview recently with the Hon. Barnabas Hobbs, of Bleomingdale, Parke county. Mr. Hobbs is now past the alletted three score and ten, but is still, mentally and physically, a vigorous, wellpreserved man. When questioned as to his polities Mr. Hobes said: "I have been a Republican ever since the party was organized, and was a Whig before that." Like all Quakers, he was opposed to slavery, but did not join the anti-slavery party because he did not approve their extreme methods of agitation. Mr. Hobbs, however, is probably best known as an advocate of temperance. He said: "I signed the pledge when I was fifteen years of age and have kept it ever since." He has worked for the advancement of the cause in every practicable way. writing, speaking, and assisting in conventions, and has therefore a thorough knowledge of the question in all its bearings, the most expedient and practicable means of controlling the liquer traffic, the results of legislation in the past, the outcome of any future attempts at legislation. To all these phases of the question he has given careful consideration, and is prepared to speak "as one having authority." He is first and foremost a Prohibitionist, but he has not let his zeal in this direction blind him to the inevitable consequences which must follow when that moderation which tends to a wise and deliberate counsel is succeeded by the unreason of fanaticism. Mr. Hobbs's views must be accepted by all honest and unprejudiced people as thoroughly sound and sensible. He was asked, by way of a preliminary, what he thought of the formation of a third party. "I think," he replied, "that in organizing a third party the temperance people have stood in their own way. I think the results which they hope for would have been more speedily attained if they had not organ-

"What reasons have you for believing this!" "Because they attempt to make prominent and bring prohibition to the front-making it a universal cause for the Nation, when the Constitution forbids any such arbitrary authority over the States. The prohibition and sale of intoxicating drinks is a matter under the jurisdiction of the States, and does not come within the limits of national legislation. Congress can legislate for the District of Columbia and the Territories, and that is the limit of its anthority. Political platforms can very properly express an opinion about the desirability of the thing, but to attempt to enforce laws over the State would be inconsistent in their purpose. Another objection to the formation of a third-party movement is that its constituency object to local option or any other means of suppressing the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks, except State prohibition enforced through constitutional amendment. I think that any law which will curtail the sale or manufacture of intoxicants is an efficient way of reaching a subject, whether it be sufficient or not.

means that will look toward legal restraint of the liquor traffic by legislative action, which their cause, is the efficient way or the temperance sentiment. And while the Prohibition party opposes every movement except the one, they hinder the work and cause a division of temperance opinion. Whenever people consistent temperance people should see the advantage of having all temperance people united in the support of that cause. Therefore, the more it is made non-partisan the greater will be the combination for the accomplishment of its purpose. Whatever has been done in the States heretofore has been done by making it the cause of the people, and for that reason I think there never should have been a separate political temperance organization. I cannot see that either the Republican or Democratic party, North or South, is hindered from working in the temperance cause as a local interest, and there is a full privilege to vote and act their principles Mr. Hobbs was asked his opinion of the local-option plank in the Republican State platform. He replied: "It is all that expediency would warrant or require. The Republican party has been distinguished for prudence and wisdom is the management of its political interests. While the great body is composed of Christian and temperance men, who could say a great many things in the platforms which would be an expression of their convictions, if they should utter all they feel, the effect would be to repel many voters from the party and cause a fatiure to elect. I judge the Republican party in the matter of prohibition and the consideration of all moral interests by the way they vote in the Legislature, in the enactment of laws. In the passage of the Baxter bill they voted 96 per cent. in favor of local option. In a bill for constitutional amendment a few years ago they voted 96 per cent. in favor of it, and in 1885 they voted 98 per cent, in favor of a most thorough and efficient local-option bill, and have shows themselves to be the practical means in the State to effect temperance legislation. For this reason I am content to remain with the Republican party, until it shows that it has abandened the interests of temperance. On every occasion it has shown that it was advancing instead of receding.'

Colonel Burr's "Life of Sheridan." NONQUITT, Mass., Sept. 20.-Mrs. P. H. Sherdan sends the following to the Associated

"I have seen in several of the New England papers a telegram which says that Mr. Frank Barr, who has written a life of General Sheridan, was an intimate triend of my husband; that General Sheridan aided him in the preparation of his book and in revising it. The statements thus made are all amrue. General Sherdan was never an intimate friend of Mr. Burr, and he not only never aided him in the preparation or revision of any book, but he ordered Mr. Burr from his office when that gentleman approached him on the subject last winter. I certainly can have no objection to Mr. Burr or any one else writing of my husband, but when it is proposed to foist Mr. Burr's book upon the public by false representations, I believe that the public will forgive me for appearing in the matter, particularly as I am prepared to prove that agents of Mr. Burr's publishers have represented that I am pecuniarly interested in their book-s representation which is also false, as I have no pecuniary interest in any publication about General Sheridan except his own personal MRS. P. H. SHERIDAN."
